A Trip to McAllister's Lake.

To the Editor of The Oregonian

Not long ago it was my fortune to visit Olympia, the Capital of Washington Territory, a city which may fairly boast, I think, as beautiful natural surroundings as any on this coast north of California. After making a trip down the delightful bay, and seeing from the water the sun set behind the rosy summits of the Olympic range, I was told by my kind entertainer that a richer enjoyment was yet in store for me. The truth of this statement I felt inclined to doubt, "for what," I thought, "can possibly be finer than this blue expanse of water, those crimson shadows trembling on the mountain heights, and over all that soft, mellow light, fringing with golden glory the snow peaks?"

The next day, however, my friend called me up betimes and announced that we were to start that morning for McAllister's Lake. Horses were led out, and our party, consisting of my host, his wife and sister, and a gentleman who, by the way, is a keen angler, as thorough a Waltonian as ever threw fly, were soon mounted and away. Our road lay for about ten miles over a barren and sandy prairie, bordered with stunted firs, and strewn with rough masses of stone, looking much as if some meteorite had been shivered to pieces over the spot and the fragments scattered about in every direction. The ground was literally covered in some places with these curious sandstone remains, undoubtedly heaped up through the agency of water in that distant and yet comparatively modern age of the earth's history known as the Tertiary Period, when all this region was covered by the sea.

After leaving the prairie we struck into the thick timber, where only a narrow bridle path or trail offered passage through the dense woods. Threading our way along in single file, we emerged in about an hour into open ground, and soon found ourselves on the borders of what seemed a small pond of dark looking water. "That," said my host, pointing it out to us, "is the lake!" I confessed to feeling considerably disappointed—had expected a beautiful sheet of water, &c. The angler declared that unless the fish should be plenty and easy to catch, he should be exceedingly disgusted, and as for the ladies, they were loud in their abuse of the "ugly swamp" to which they had been brought. Our host only smiled, and conducted us down the bank to a small boat, which was lying among the water-plants on the margin of the pond. In a few minutes we had pushed off and were standing out from the land. As I leaned over the side of the boat, I beheld aught which transfixed me with surprise and admiration. The Waltonian saw too, and his lifted rod dropped from his hand, as with eyes wide with astonishment, he gazed over the other side of the boat. Exclamations of delight were heard from the ladies, while our host, quietly smiling, guided the boat along with his paddle into deeper water. No wonder we were astonished, for there, under our gliding boat, lay a wondrous lake; its waters, clear as crystal, seemed in places as shallow as a summer brook, but when one tried to sound them, the longest poles were too short—we could not touch the bed below. And yet, so perfect was the illusion, that we could have sworn that our paddle was long enough to reach it. And near these seemingly shallow places (in reality so deep), we could see, stretching away below us vast yawning chasms in the bed of the stream (for this is really a stream swelling up from the interior of the earth, and flowing with a sluggish motion into a creek which bears the same name with the pond)—chasms which appeared literally unfathomable—

"Deeper than did ever plummet sound."

As I leaned back in the slowly moving boat and gazed into these wonderful waters, I seemed in a fairy place. The tranquil and motionless pond, the grassy banks fringed with tall bushes and water-plants, all standing sharply defined, reflected from those crystal depths, and above all the lonely and mysterious situation of the lake, shut up as it were in the darkest recesses of the forest, brought back to my mind that old legend of King Arthur's time, and once more, seemed beckoning to me from that watery mirror.

"An arm Clothed in white samite, mystic, wonderful,"

As we moved onward, we descried far below us a huge trout, swimming lazily along, at such a great depth that, though we were assured by our host that they often exceed a foot in length, they seemed no larger than so many tiny minnows, and this notwithstanding the fact that they were somewhat magnified by the water. The angler, however, I regret to state, was not "in luck" that day, the bright sunshine, and the enthusiastic and freely-expressed admiration of our party at the wonders we saw, were sufficient to frighten away the coy fish, and our friend's line remained unvisited by a single nibble during the whole day. On a subsequent trip however, he was more successful, hooking no less than fifty magnificent trout in a little less than half a day.

But my description of this wonderful lake is not yet completed. Below the surface appears great masses of decaying vegetation, especially what appears to be enormous trunks of trees which have fallen into the water at some former time and have there undergone slow decomposition. No trees at all comparable to these in size, line the borders of the pond; hence it is probable that they fell in there long ago, when the shores wore a different aspect and the water was much higher, than at present. By reaching down with long poles we succeeded in detaching some of the decaying vegetable tissue which had floated above the underlying trees from the branches to which it clung and in drawing up to the surface the delicate mosses and water-plants adhering to it, but to touch the bed of the pond we found impossible.

There can be no more beautiful a spectacle imagined than the sight which meets the beholder's eye as he looks down into those glassy depths. The floating masses at the bottom of the pond, idly swaying with the gentle ripple of the tide, combined with the limpid purity and apparently immeasurable depth of the water, all form a picture, which brings vividly to remembrance the matchless lines of Percival:

Deep in the waves is a coral grove,
Where the purple mullet and gold-fish rove;
The floor is of sand like the mountain drift,
And the pearl shells spangle the flinty snow;
From coral rocks the sea plants lift
Their boughs where the tides and billows flow;
The water is calm and still below,
For the winds and waves are absent there
And the sands are bright as the stars that glow
In the motionless fields of the upper air,
And life in rare and beautiful forms
Is sporting amid those bowers of stone,
And is safe when the wrathful spirit of storms
Has made the top of the waves his own

After a day spent in the most delightful enjoyment, we reluctantly left those beautiful waters and rode back to Olympia, feeling that we were leaving behind us a land of fairy beauty.

At a special session of the R. W. Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Massachusetts, held February 5th, the following style of street uniform was approved, and it was voted that no Encampment in that jurisdiction be allowed to appear in a street uniform unless a pattern of the same shall have first been submitted to the Board of Grand officers, and have been approved by them.

"A Mounted Masquerade" is to take place at Walla Walla on the 25th inst. We don't know what for.

On Wednesday of last week a fire broke out in the residence of Mr. Leany, in Seattle, and did damage to the amount of $1,000.

O P. Whitelaw of Pacific county, and D. S. Smith of Seattle have been commissioned as Notaries Public for Washington Territory by Gov. Ferry.

We regret to learn from the Walla Walla Statesman that Judge Wyche has suffered a relapse and his condition is such as to give but slight hope of his ultimate recovery.

The Walla Walla Statesman complains that the eastern counties of Washington Territory pay more than half the Territorial tax, though they do not own half the wealth.

The Walla Walla Union says: "We learn that there has been a very large amount of bacon made in Grande Ronde, and that the people over there will be able to supply the mines East of them. Our people will have to depend on the mines in Northern Idaho, the Railroad—if it is to be built this season—and Portland for markets for their surplus.

Mr. Gilman Sawtelle, the only settler on the banks of Henry's Lake, near Low Pass, tells the Montanian that there is now but ten inches of snow in the Pass, that the mercury up there has been only 17 deg. below zero this winter, and that with an ordinary mule team he could this winter, as he did in 1867–8, keep the Pass in a passable condition for loaded teams.

The grand jury of King county, W. T., in their final report to the court, state in relation to the Seattle jail, as follows: "We, the members of the grand jury, after visiting the county jail, most respectfully recommend that a better and larger jail be erected, in a more healthy location, as the present one is unfit for a human being to be placed in, and is much too small for the present want."

The irregular delivery of the mails on the Olympia and Victoria route is the subject of continued and general complaint at all the ports along the Sound. The neglect, which is attributed by many to be intentional, has become so common that but little dependence is placed upon the speedy carriage and delivery of mail matter, and very many prefer and order their newspapers and letters by other boats than the mail steamer.

The Seattle Intelligencer says: By an arrangement made by a few of the principal business men of this city, Captain Allen Francis, owner of the steamer Rose, has been induced to place that vessel on the route between Bellingham Bay, San Juan Islands and Semiahmoo Bay. She will therefore run regularly hereafter on that newly established route, leaving Whatcom each week upon the arrival there of the steamer Libby. By this arrangement the people of those Islands and of the Semiahmoo country will be greatly accommodated and this city much benefitted by the large trade which will necessarily follow.

The Seattle Dispatch says: "Mr. Robert Abrams, of this city, has purchased the coal mine on the Mallory claim, about ten miles south of Seattle, on Cedar river, and has men employed in running a level opening upon the vein, which is 3½ to 4 feet in thickness, and the outcroppings—a specimen of which may be seen at this office—promises a good quality of coal further in the mountain, at the base of which the mine is open. It is convenient to steamboat navigation connecting with this port, and we trust it will prove a mine of wealth to its enterprising proprietor. Mr. Abrams says there is a well-defined and extensive bed of iron ore in the immediate vicinity of his coal mine."

The Walla Walla Union says: "As the stages between Boise City and the railroad have had to stop carrying passengers, those who wish to travel from the Atlantic States to the northwest coast are compelled to come by the way of San Francisco. Those wishing to come to Eastern Oregon or Eastern Washington have to come by the way of the Columbia river. It is to be hoped that the navigation of the river will be resumed without delay, as the travel over this route must greatly increase. The company had not intended to resume navigation until as late as the 1st of March, but it is to be hoped that they will not delay so long. We can, however, wait the other two weeks if we must, but do not like to."

At a meeting of the Trustees of P. S. Telegraph Company at Port Townsend, on the 13th of February, it was decided to order the fifth assessment upon the capital stock of the company; that all delinquent stock should be advertised, and if assessment remained unpaid should be sold. Considering it best to complete the line to Seattle without further delay, the Trustees agreed to advance the money for the purchase of the necessary cable to complete the connection, and for the construction of the remaining land line. It is now expected that direct telegraphic communication between Seattle and Port Townsend will be established by the end of the first week in March, and the experience of the past month goes to show that there is every prospect of the line being self-sustaining when finished.

Here is the opinion of Horace F. Clark, formerly President of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, given before the Poland Committee a few days ago:

Q. Since your connection with the Company have you known Oakes Ames in connection with the affairs of the Company as a business man? A. I know Oakes Ames very well; I first met him in 1872, and have had business relations with him; he always attended the meetings of the board and always exhibited deep interest in the affairs of the Company.

Q. Are you permitted to state your views of his action in connection with the Company in regard to that? A. I have no secrets in regard to that.

Q. What is your idea of his character as a business man? A. Mr. Ames is a peculiar man, he has impressed me as thoroughly honest, without great accuracy and without, perhaps, that peculiar culture which some men have acquired.

Q. I ask you for his general character as a business man. A. I think very well of Mr. Ames; I should not call him an accurate man, but I regard him, Sir, as a thoroughly honest man.

A bill is now before Congress which proposes to incorporate the New York and Chicago Sphero-Pneumatic Tube Company, with $40,000 capital per mile and power to issue bonds. Albert Brisbane, James M. Ashley and Mrs. Helen M. Barnard of Washington City are the incorporators, and they propose to construct a tube road between the above named cities for the propulsion of hollow metallic spheres containing mail matter, small packages, etc. Pneumatic transportation is utilized in the City of Washington to-day, and the movers in this project have great confidence in its feasibility.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

EASTERN DATES TO FEBRUARY 20.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—In the Senate, Frelinghuysen gave notice he would to-morrow ask the Senate to take up the bill reported from the Judiciary committee relating to Utah affairs.

Stewart, from the Committee on Pacific Railroads, reported with amendments, the bill supplemental to an act incorporating the Texas Pacific Railroad Company. It authorizes the Company to consolidate with or lease any railroad in Texas or California, connecting with its main line, on such conditions as may be prescribed by the laws of those States. Also to construct branches from its main line north to points in Utah and Colorado, or to the State line in Nevada, and south to the Mexican border. One branch north and south to be constructed from the main line in each of the territories of New Mexico and Arizona.

Casserly entered a motion to reconsider the vote passing the Asiatic Telegraph Cable bill

After Executive session, the Senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—In the Senate, Mr. Carpenter from the Committee on Elections, submitted a report in the Louisiana case providing for a new election.

Senator Morton presented his dissent from the report. He favored the recognition of the Kellogg Government, because the Supreme Court of Louisiana recognized it, and because it was a strong Government.

Senator Trumbull also dissented from the majority in a statement favoring the McEnery Government as the one legally elected.

In the House, Mr Wood introduced a resolution for the impeachment of Colfax. The House refused to consider the resolution by a vote of—yeas, 105; nays, 109.

The House rejected a bill for the payment of the war claims of 1812 by a vote of 90 to 108.

The House ordered an investigation into alleged corruption in the matter of the Pacific mail subsidy, last session.

A Visit of the President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—President Grant was at the President's room in the Senate this afternoon, accompanied by Secretary Fish. As it is known the President is opposed to an extra session of Congress it is inferred from the fact that he was for some time privately engaged with Speaker Blaine and Gen. Garfield, Chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations, the object of his visit was with reference to the condition of public business. He also had a conference with members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs.

CHICAGO, Feb 20—A Washington special says one of the objects of the President's visit to the Capitol yesterday was to look after the Utah bill. He had conferences with Senators Frelinghuysen, Conkling and Edmunds. He represented that legislation was imperative, and asked the gentlemen in question to press the bill for passage. He also had conferences with several members of the House on the same subject.

The same special says there is a growing feeling that it will be impossible to get the necessary two-third vote for the expulsion of Ames and Brooks. Ames appears perfectly confident that no such result can be reached, and says a motion to expel members of the Committee would get more votes than the resolution to expel him.

It is stated that since the passage of the Asiatic telegraph bill it has been discovered that parties standing behind the scheme are not responsible, and probably their only object in securing the bill is to sell the franchise accruing under it. So Senator Casserly moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the bill was passed, and will call it up at the first opportunity. This action defeats the bill for this session at least.

Fernando Wood has prepared a resolution which he will offer to-day referring to the Committee of Judiciary all the evidence taken by the Poland Committee, with instructions to report articles of impeachment against Colfax, if in their judgment the evidence is sufficient to warrant impeachment.

The White House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19—The House Committee on Public Buildings have agreed to report that the present Executive mansion is unsuited for the private residence of the President, but may be used as offices for the Executive Department. They also agree to report in favor of building a new Presidential residence.

The car was dragged 900 yards, and before the train stopped 24 of the 32 passengers were injured. One is reported killed

The organs of the priesthood grow hotter and hotter over what they call the crusade against their church. The News to-night talks of the pitiable spectacle of the President and Congress being led by the nose by a political, fanatical parson, like Newman, and by the fears of a firebrand and political adventurer, like Claggett. Says the present hue and cry after Mormons is a disgrace to the country, and an undignified concession to the villainous schemes of corrupt crews.

The Yreka Journal has the following:

FAIRCHILD'S RANCH, Feb 19—A B. Meacham, Peace Commissioner, arrived here from Washington yesterday, joining I. D. Applegate, S Case and Gen. Canby, completing the Commission party. A messenger was immediately dispatched to Whittle's ferry for Bob Whittle and his Modoc wife Matilda, who will go to Jack's camp and solicit an opportunity for the Commissioners to meet him. It is expected they will arrive to-day or to-morrow. It will require two days then, to learn when an interview can be had. The Commissioners consider the probabilities of peace very doubtful. The Commissioners are acting in unity. They will send in the Indian woman to notify Jack of their desire for a council and appoint a day. Probably the following terms will be offered and insisted on by the Peace Commissioners:

1st—The unconditional surrender of Captain Jack and his party.

2d—Trial and conviction by the civil authorities.

3d—The removal of the remaining Modocs to a distant coast reservation

BENICIA, Feb 20.—From Benicia, to-day, there was shipped from the arsenal two mortars, and also hand grenades and other munitions of war, to General Gillem now commanding the troops in the Modoc country. All troops heretofore stationed at this garrison are now at the front.

The mails on the route from here to Victoria were yesterday ordered to be delivered to J. T. Nash. The commodious steamer North Pacific has heretofore performed this service.

A large number of Chinese are in this vicinity awaiting the resumption of work on the North Pacific railroad next month

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 21, 1873

An Extraordinary Document.

We have received from Washington a copy of the "reports relative to the expenses incurred by the Territories of Washington and Oregon in the suppression of Indian hostilities in the year 1856." This document is from the War Department, bears date, January 8, 1873, and is the result of a resolution passed January 6, 1873. So the matter was in hand just two days, assuming that no time was lost between the passage of the resolution and the time of making the report. The pamphlet contains sixty-eight pages of printed matter. It is the work of Thos. H. Bradley, a Lieutenant of Infantry, Secretary Bellknap having no part nor lot in the matter, except to write at the close of Mr Bradley's report "Lieutenant Bradley's views as presented in the foregoing report, are approved"—to which the Secretary's signature is attached. This Lieutenant Bradley is probably a person of prodigious capacity for labors of the nature of that assigned to him by the Secretary, but it may well be doubted whether any man is equal to the task of giving a reasonably thorough examination to the claims known as the Oregon War Claims, and writing a report thereof, all in the space of two days, and especially when we consider that within that period not only was the work actually accomplished, but its subject matter passed also under the inspection of the Secretary of War so that he could write his unqualified approval of the report. To have performed this work with only a reasonable degree of thoroughness within that time, would have been the nearest approach on record to "the creation of a two year old colt in two minutes," which is said to be beyond the power of omnipotence.

But when we come to examine the report for the purpose of ascertaining what are the views of Lieut. Bradley, we discover that the document is mainly an indictment against O. S. Drew, B. F. Dowell, Jesse Robinson and W. C. Griswold, for alleged wrongs in connection with the collection of claims arising out of the war of 1854. The report is simply an argument to prove that there were false claims made and unjust allowances secured by these persons, and an inference that the claims arising out of the war of 1855–6, which had no connection whatever with the former transactions, must also be fraudulent.

Now it may be that the individuals named acted as reprehensibly as this Lieutenant Bradley represents them to have done, but his arriving at the conclusion that they acted dishonestly is no evidence of the fact, for he had not the matter before him long enough to form any well considered opinion upon the subject. The idea of investigating the claims arising out of the Indian war of 1854, in two days, is simply absurd.

But assuming the claims of 1854 to have been grossly fraudulent, by what course of reasoning is that fact to be made conclusive evidence that the claims of 1855–6 are likewise unjust? We have no doubt there were overcharges in these claims as there are in the bills presented to the Government for every Indian war, but this indecent haste in condemning those demands by wholesale, without even the form of an investigation, does not strike one as the best disposition that could be made of them.

The editor of the Bulletin says we were inaccurate in two particulars in regard to his levying a contribution from his friends to pay his way to Washington when he went on his office-seeking expedition.

First—The statement that he "importuned" his friends to take up a collection for him, he says is inaccurate. Possibly the word "importune" is too strong. It would have been better to say asked, or solicited.

Second—He says he did not use the words that he "was poor and wanted to go to Washington to get an office." We did not say he did. He misquotes, doubtless through inadvertence. But he denies only the words at any rate. The gist of the matter—the going to Washington as an object of charity—the feature involving the mendicancy—this is not denied, and cannot be. It can be proved by numerous parties who contributed to the collection that was taken up.

Nor can he deny the statement that he is drawing his full salary and perquisites as a Collector of Customs while devoting the time for which the Government pays him, to running a daily paper in the interest, of the railway ring.

We do not know that it is a crime to be a beggar, but since it is never considered a reputable business for an able-bodied man to be engaged in, in this country, it will be admitted that one who has been so engaged would exercise discretion by avoiding all unnecessary gibes at the real or supposed misfortunes of others.

In the Credit Mobilier investigation, all of the prominent accused prepared written statements of their testimony, which they read before the Committee. Schuyler Colfax took this precaution, and so did Oakes Ames toward the end of the inquisition, when great prudence was required in answering the close examinations of the defendants. The defense of Senator Patterson is a carefully studied, well arranged document. The New Hampshire Senator, by the way, filled a Professor's chair in Dartmouth College for a long time. His answer to the charge of corruption gives evidence of much culture. There is a regretful tone of mild reproach to his accusers running through this closing sentence of his testimony: "Of this outrage done to the fair fame of men who have lived without reproach for half a century, by driving them into the gaze of the public with a scourge of epithets which should be laid upon the lowest criminal with caution, of the torture inflicted upon men sensitive of their good names by subjecting them to legislative inquisition without sufficient reason, I may take occasion to speak elsewhere; but here I close, simply remarking if such things are to continue, all decent men will leave public life, as I do with pleasure and not with regret."

This time it is an old lady, which her name was Mrs. Mary Miller. She is dead now. In the hey-day of youth, when Mary was a blushing but sprightly damsel of sweet sixteen, she mounted on the spinal column of a domesticated equine, traversed a State to attend the funeral of George Washington, deceased. That was in the year of our Lord, 1800, not quite as far back as the "confidential servants" go, but very good when we consider that Mary used tobacco.

The Independent has the following fair hit at the distinguished transcendentalist. "Ralph Waldo Emerson is to spend the winter in Egypt, where perhaps he will contemplate the Sphinx and write another poem to puzzle the wits of his admirers."

Mr. Sargent of California, has never distinguished himself as champion of any cause if we except his disgraceful devotion to monopolists and their schemes. As a pleasing diversion from his constant genuflections before his image of railway iron, we are gratified to note that he has pronounced himself fairly and squarely a worshipper at the shrine of the irrepressible Susan. In a debate on the Utah question a few days since, Mr. Sargent uttered a vigorous philippic against the Mormon heirarchy. His declaration that woman suffrage must hereafter be made an indispensable requisite to the admission of new States was a surprising departure from the customary indifference with which Susan's hobby meets in the House. Mr. Sargent said, moreover, that "for any Republican Senator or Representative to vote for the letting in of a sucking commonwealth which disfranchises the ladies, would be to go back in the most flagrant and indecent manner upon the Philadelphia platform." Good for Sargent. We congratulate him on his brief release from the straight-jacket of railroad rule.

Several weeks since, Rev. John Weiss,—who is best known as a leader in the Boston Radical Club—was invited to deliver his six lectures on Shakespeare before a society of litterateurs in New York City. When applied to for the use of their hall, the Young Men's Christian Association returned a prompt denial, and the reverend gentleman was compelled to swallow the insult. The refusal was justified on the ground that Mr. Weiss' religious teachings were heterodox, unsound and dangerous. The excuse is an unworthy one and insufficient. It met with a fitting rebuke from Henry Ward Beecher, who refers to the bigotry which prompted it, in the following language, which is quoted from the Christian Union:

That you should refuse your hall for the purpose of propagating opinions at war with the evangelical theology would be only natural, but that a man of the highest moral and social standing, of elevated and ennobling tastes, and beloved in many an orthodox circle, should be thought unfit to enter its walls as a lecturer on the genius of Shakespeare, does not seem to us quite creditable to the intelligence, discrimination and good sense of the association.

The Independent brings us the novel information that Captain Jack is "aided in his military tactics by sundry renegade whites." It is refreshing to note with what accuracy these Eastern journals speak of our domestic affairs. The settlers of Northern California will thank the Independent for its timely warning of Captain Jack's intention of "raiding on the white settlement at Battle Creek." If we can but soothe our shattered nerves with these dulcet utterances ex cathedra, in due time we shall be prepared to accept any terms which that "illustrious hero"—Jack—may dictate to the Peace Commissioners.

Try again, brother Bowen.

The Iowa liquor law is not a dead letter on the statute-books of that State, as witness this incident which occurred at Des Moines quite recently. A woman brought suit against a liquor dealer for damages which she suffered by reason of his giving her erring spouse to drink of his "liquid damnation." The jury soothed her lacerated feelings with shinplasters to the amount of $2,500. The decision of the humane jury discloses a broad field for the cupidity of some enterprising couple who may covenant with each other to speculate on the appetite for strong drink. What a pleasing vista of golden opportunities is opened to some nomadic pair who may choose to wander from city to city getting drunk alternately and recovering damages as they go!

The Chicago Inter-Ocean scoffs at the idea of independent journalism. The tone of some of its assaults may be detected in the sentiment which it announces as its "cardinal declaration." "Independent in nothing; Republican in everything." There is radicalism boiled down and solidified.

Letter from Canyon City.

CANYON CITY, Feb. 5th, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

We are now enjoying the closing scenes of the delightful festivities incident to the celebration of Chinese New Year. The air is full of music and pyrotechnics, mingled with the aromatic fumes of opium and various kinds of chung toy. Gin flows freely, and is the motive power by which they run the machine, while burning Josh sticks send up their curling incense to appease the dreadful god.

AN EXCELLENT PROJECT.

A company has lately been formed here for the purpose of building a wagon road from here up Canyon creek, by Sproul's saw mill, to intersect the Camp Harney road at the south end of Bear valley. This will greatly reduce the distance and avoid the steep grades between here and Camp Harney, and have a tendency to draw travel this way from the railroad. The incorporators are Judge F. C. Sels, L. W. Church, W. V. Rinehart, J. N. Clark and John McCullough, all of this place. It is to be hoped that this scheme will prove successful, as it will be of great advantage in opening communication with the country south of here which has been shut out heretofore by the great depth of snow and bad roads.

A LONG NEGLECTED WANT.

We look forward to the establishment of a mail route from here to Winnemucca as the only hope for us to ever get nearer to the great heart of the nation. A country can never hope to advance while its people are content with a weekly mail. And our people are not content, for in spite of our petitions, oft repeated as they have been, we have borne for ten years with only a weekly mail service, but still the petitions are going forward. Can not some of the papers having large lists of subscribers here take hold of this matter and give us a helping hand? Your dailies never can come here until we have a daily mail, and this we are bent on having. The man or set of men who will submit to be deprived of a daily paper lack the essential elements of success.

THE LIGHT FANTASTIC.

The terpsichorean art is rife in our midst. Our dancing academy resounds with the tramp, tramp of the "light fantastic toe." You should have your sanctum adjoining one of these institutions if you would enjoy the divine afflatus which he gets the "poetry of motion." The class has assumed the euphonious name of "Floodwood"—each member, doubtless, regarding himself as drifting out of the mountains on that peculiar

"Tide in the affairs of men,
Which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

The musical cadence of their foot falls is borne on the midnight air—a fit accompaniment to the weird orgies of our celestial neighbors.

OTHER ENTERTAINMENTS.

The Odd Fellows of this place propose giving a grand ball in the name of the order on the evening of February 21st. The Good Templars have been giving a ball each week in their Hall during most of the winter. If dancing is wrong, it is time a missionary were sent amongst us, for our whole community are a tip toe with the dancing mania.

CRITICS OF THE RORY O'MOORE KIND.

Our people are obliged to San Francisco for the compliments paid to our "Joaquin C. H. Miller," the "Poet of the Sierras;" but we think they displayed bad taste in their treatment of General Applegate. When such men are to be judged by the encomiums of a San Francisco audience, the world is cheated out of their correct measure, unless they employ the rule of contraries. We are inclined to regard Miller as a bilk, since he told what kind of a rough people we were when he ruled us.

CIVIC SOCIETIES.

A new lodge of Good Templars at Ingle's, and a new lodge of Masons at Prairie City, are soon to be established. * * *

An eagle was shot in Iowa recently while endeavoring to carry off an eighty pound porker.

OREGON STATE TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE.

THIRD ANNUAL SESSION.

SALEM, Feb. 20, 1873.

Pursuant to last year's adjournment the Alliance met to day in Salem.

In the absence of the President, S. C. Adams, the Alliance was called to order by the Vice President, Hon. J. H. D. Henderson, and the session was opened with prayer by Rev. W. R. Stewart, of Salem.

Present, about 180 delegates.

In a brief opening address, the Chairman alluded to the objects sought to be attained by the Convention, congratulated the delegates on the prosperous, social and political condition of the commonwealth, and more particularly upon the harmony of sentiment and unanimity of purpose notable in the popular mind. Everywhere the animosities of party strife are yielding to the law of love. Above the din of partisan warfare rise the higher and nobler voices of peace and good will. They call us to a sacrifice of prejudice and passion, to a more complete recognition of the grand truth of the universal brotherhood of man. Superior to all the incidental questions of national politics, rises this one of temperance. To the discussion of this one vital question you have been summoned hither. You are met to devise ways and means for the extirpation of a growing evil.

We had used moral suasion in our past actions, and that had exerted its influence and expended its power. It had reached all that were capable of being reached. We now needed legal suasion. Forty years experience had convinced him that it were as legitimate to use moral suasion to suppress theft, murder, and crime generally, as to expect the suppression of intemperance without the employment of legal suasion. We must adopt at this meeting some course of action that will invoke the strong arm of the law to arrest the onward progress of intemperance and crime, that like a mighty river is deluging our land. If told we cannot reach the evil complained of by legal suasion, we might as well cease to suppress and punish crime by the same. Moral suasion has reached all it is capable of influencing, and we now invoke the aid of the law, and we have a right to do so.

We grant license to sell liquor—to make men drunk—and have we not the power to revoke that license—to forbid it? I am in favor of keeping liquors of all kinds in the drug store, where it properly belongs.

Let us act judiciously to day—not too little nor too much. Let us not burden this subject with foreign and extraneous questions—questions that do not legitimately belong to it. Let us keep the objective point of our temperance organization in view and not encumber it with side issues, and then our success in the future is bright and cheering.

Let harmony and brotherly kindness characterize all your deliberations. Be prudent and just, casting aside as unworthy all matters extraneous to the main issue. So may we hope that the third annual session of our Alliance will bring forth the desired fruit. So may we hope, too, that our proud young State shall gather new luster to her name from this congress of temperance people. The third annual session of the Oregon State Temperance Alliance is now opened, and you will proceed at once to effect a temporary organization.

On motion Miles M. Miller of Salem was appointed Secretary, pro tem.

On motion E. Hughes of Halsey, J. Quinn Thornton of Salem and Col. Thos. H. Cann were appointed a Committee on Credentials.

A motion to appoint a Committee on Order of Business was carried; whereupon T. H. Cann, Geo. W. Vollum and C. W. Todd, were appointed such Committee.

A lively discussion followed a motion to adjourn to 1 o'clock. The motion was finally carried by a close vote and the Alliance will meet this afternoon to receive reports from the several committees.

The session has commenced its labors under most promising auspices. There is strong evidence of a desire to work, and, so far, the various delegations have acted with perfect unanimity. The contest on permanent organization will probably be a close one, and the morrow will find the various sections belted and girded for the friendly fray.

The Committee on Order of Business will report as follows:

1st. Election of officers, to consist of a President, three Vice Presidents, Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, Chaplain, Sergeant-at-Arms, and an Executive Committee of four persons from each county in the commonwealth.

2d. Reading the minutes of last meeting.

3d. Appointment of Committees.

4th. Resolutions.

5th. General Business.

A prospective quarrel arises on the horizon of the Alliance in the shape of "a cloud no bigger than a man's hand." It cometh from Oro Fino Hall. The Committee on Credentials in their report will recommend that the delegation from the Woman's Suffrage Association which lately sat in Portland, headed by Mrs. A. J. Duniway, be not admitted as properly accredited delegates. The ground of the objection is understood to be, that the Association above mentioned is a political organization, and as such their representatives should not be admitted. The little cloud lowers and grows bigger. The advocates of the broader view contend that such exclusive sentiment is not in keeping with the true theory of the organization, while the aggressive committeemen, headed by J. Quinn Thornton, the Nestor of Anti-Suffrage, insist that the scenes of last year, where in Bro. Driver and the keen champion of woman's cause had their wordy tilt, should not be re-enacted. The afternoon will bring forth many things. Already mutterings of wrath in the hostile camps threaten to mar the peace of the Alliance. We would recommend to the delegates that in the discussion of this vexed problem, they keep always before them the cardinal principle of "Temperance in all things." This threatening of mutiny should be nipped in the bud, 'ere it is an hour older.

This is a way the New York Tribune has of advertising the great humorist Mark Twain.

Of course none of our readers will forget that it is to-night Mr. Mark Twain gives for the first time, in Steinway Hall, that new lecture upon the Sandwich Islands, which is expected to exhaust the sum of the learning, the sentiment and the science at present existing in the world in regard to that interesting subject. Many people have visited that fascinating archipelago, but none took the precaution of carrying with them the eyes of Mr. Clemens. The consequence is that those who go to Steinway Hall to-night will get entirely new views of Kanaka civilization, even though they may have resided at Honolulu from their youth up. It must never be forgotten that Mr Clemens is not only a great humorist, but a great observer and a deep philosophical thinker. The fact that his letters to the Tribune unquestionably put Prince Bill upon the throne, establishes his claim to the title of the Pacific Warwick and he is, so far as we remember, the first Warwick who ever expounded his theories of government for 75 cents a ticket, one dollar for reserved seats.

The New York Times is disposed to growl and show its teeth a little at Bancroft Davis. Just how Mr. D. incurred the wrathful displeasure of the Times, we do not know, but here are the figures.

It appears that Mr Secretary Fish is to remain in office, and that he wishes to have Bancroft Davis as his under secretary! If we are not at loggerheads with half the world before a twelve month is over, it will not be Bancroft Davis's fault. Mr. Davis must now be considered the Secretary of State—he will doubtless kindly allow Mr Fish to retain the title while he wields the power.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 21, 1873.

EXTENSION ON TIME ASKED.—At the last meeting of the Common Council, the Wallamet Bridge Company asked for an extension of the time for the commencement of work on that structure until the 15th of August, 1873. The petition was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property who will probably report on the same at the next meeting of the Council. It is stated that at the present stage of water work on the bridge must necessarily progress very slow and with difficulty, and be attended with a great or outlay of money, than when the river is lower, that it would be impracticable to operate effectually or make the work performed as substantial as when the river reaches the low water mark. Work was begun by the driving of a few piles on last Tuesday, when it was found that the driver could not be kept in proper position except by the aid of a small steamer, to bear it up against the current. In many other respects the work would be attended with great difficulty and inconvenience.

SHOT AND KILLED.—From parties down the river we learn that a shooting affray occurred at Westport on last Tuesday between two Indians, in which one of the noble red men was caused to hastily pass in his checks. Some bad blood existed between the Siwashes which finally culminated in an open quarrel. During the altercation one of the Indians seized hold of a double-barreled shotgun heavily charged, which was discharged at the other party, when the muzzle was but a few feet from his breast. The whole load entered the Indian's body, killing him instantly. It is stated that the murderer still stalked about, while his dead comrade rests where no weeping willow waves above the remains. A rope used in connection with a temporary scaffold might inspire a greater respect of the sacredness of human life in the mind of the victorious Lo.

DISAPPEARED.—Some days ago it was announced that the familiar face and form of a Chinaman had mysteriously disappeared from our midst. The precise manner of his taking off no one knew. Some intimated that John had temporarily departed to visit his relatives; others that he had directed his No. 12 brogans towards "furrin parts," while others were uncharitable enough to hint at a dark and diabolical plot by which the heathen had been caused to involuntarily pass in his ticket. Yesterday a partial solution of his continued absence was effected by the discovery of some clothes on the wharf at the foot of Salmon street, which were identified as belonging to the absent but not forgotten one. The leading conundrum agitating the Asiatic mind at present, is: did the Chinaman commit suicide, or did some person take that job off his hands?

PAINTED LAMP POSTS.—The many lamp posts about the city have received and are receiving a fresh coat of green paint. Some of the street loungers are so accustomed to lean against these iron supports to pass away their leisure time, that they practice the habit before the paint gets dry, and that frequently at the sacrifice of a suit of broadcloth. The painter finds the paint rubbed off of numbers of these posts within an hour after it is applied, much to his annoyance. Persons who have developed a strong inclination to lean on the city's property, are modestly requested to examine the posts before coming in contact with them. Ladies in full walking dresses should give these freshly painted posts the "go by."

COAL ANALYZED.—Recently a vein of lignite coal was discovered near the Cowlitz river. A small quantity of this coal was brought to the city a few weeks ago to be analyzed. A test was made this week by Mr. J. H. Fisk and a Mr. Eastwick, the latter gentleman being connected with the N. P. R. R., and the quality of the coal determined. It was found by experiment that this coal contained at least 30 per cent. more gas than the Nanaimo coal. Twenty-five ounces of coal was submitted to the test, when it was ascertained that ten ounces of coke remained, and the rest was gas oil and water. These mines are reported to be accessible, and the quantities of coal exhaustless.

ENCOURAGING.—Mr. A. J. Dufur, one of the Centennial Commissioners from this State, started out yesterday afternoon to canvass for stock for the enterprise. He called upon a few of our citizens and was engaged but several hours. His efforts were crowned with encouraging results, for he succeeded in raising $770 worth of stock, which is equivalent to 77 shares. Oregon's quota is something over $23,000, and Mr. Dufur is sanguine that he will be able to have every share taken within one hundred days—the time allowed each State to subscribe for her complement of shares.

CHARTER THROWN UP.—We are informed that the firm to whom the bark Gemini was consigned, have thrown up the charter of that vessel, and that she is now on the market. The reason for the surrender of the charter of the Gemini is not known. She came to this port under charter to carry a cargo of wheat to Europe. The bark Ponony completed discharging her cargo yesterday, but as yet she has secured no charter.

TO PARADE.—Should the elements prove propitious, arrangements have been effected by the several military companies of the city to parade to-morrow afternoon. The companies will be headed by the East Portland Band, and will march through the principal streets of the city, and back to their armories. At noon to-morrow, a salute of 23 guns will be fired by the Portland Light Battery.

NEARLY FINISHED.—The plank roadway which is being laid over the trestle-work spanning Brooklyn Creek, and on which the railroad track once extended, is nearly finished. The parties interested in the stove foundry soon to be built and placed in operation, have laid the roadway so that wagons can cross to and fro in carrying materials required for the contemplated improvement.

BREAKING GROUND.—Ground was broken yesterday on the former site of the wooden buildings at the corner of Washington and Front street. Excavation will be made at that place for the basement of a large brick building to be erected the present season by Mr. E. Corbett. Masonry work will be commenced as soon as the excavation is completed.

DEFECTIVE FLUE.—Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock an alarm was sounded. With their usual promptness the department responded to the call. The origin of the alarm was the burning out of a defective flue at the residence of Postmaster Wakefield, at the corner of Second and Pine streets. No damage done to the building.

POST OFFICE APPOINTMENT.—The Postmaster General has ordered the establishment of a post-office at Milton, in Umatilla county. Mr. A. Cowl has also received the appointment of post master of the new office.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF.—In the case of B. B. Taylor vs Patterson & Semple, in the Circuit Court, after being out some hours the jury returned a verdict of $650 in favor of the plaintiff.

AT ASTORIA.—The following vessels are now at Astoria, and will be ready for sea in a few days: Roswell Sprague, Sarah Scott, Ilione, Rival and Falkinburg.

REGULAR LECTURE.—Mrs. A. J. Duniway will deliver a lecture at Oro Fino Theater next Sunday evening at the usual hour. Her subject will be Prayer.

COUNTY COURT.—The County Court will commence to-morrow at one o'clock for the transaction of such business as may come before that body.

Window shades, cornices, curtains, picture nails, etc., also all kinds of upholstery work done at Paul Richter's.

IN PORTLAND.—New York prices for watch repairing, opposite the postoffice.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Washington Guard, the oldest and one of the favorite military organizations of the city, will give their tenth annual ball this evening at the Armory Hall. The object of the ball is, of course, to celebrate in a becoming manner the birthday of the illustrious Washington. Saturday being the 22d, the ball will be given on Friday evening, as the managers do not desire to encroach on the sanctity of the Sabbath. The company have spared no pains nor expense to render the occasion one of the most fashionable and social events of the season. The hall has been handsomely and tastefully decorated for the occasion, and splendid music provided. No effort has been omitted which will contribute to the comfort or pleasure of participants.

We have read of the demise of a newspaper reporter who had devoted himself for thirty years to the single department of writing up fires. Let us hope he has gone to a world where there are no fires to write up. However, in that case, we can't imagine what the poor fellow is to do for employment.

The fair ones who have been favored with a "bid" will confer an everlasting favor on the O. T. If they are tardy then there is but a slight hope of being present at the opening of the "Home" soiree.

One of our exchanges has the following, which is good: We offer a purse for the best poem on the coming ground hog. Contestants to pay an entrance fee of ten cents, the author of the best contribution to receive a premium of six bits. The perpetrator of the longest to be turned out to browse on the prairies of Minnesota in a linen duster and a pair of nankeen pants.

A LAUDABLE EFFORT.

Dr. Glenn, of the Board of Directors of the Public Schools of Portland, informs us that it is the intention of the Board to inaugurate soon a series of concerts. These concerts will be given by the pupils of the several departments into which the public schools are divided. The object of such concerts is to create a fund sufficient to purchase musical instruments, which are to be used in connection with the departments. Music is one of the branches taught in the schools, and instruments are very correctly considered valuable auxiliaries in imparting instruction to the pupils. If the scheme set on foot meet with public favor, and succeeds, it is the intention of the Board to purchase a piano for the High School, a large organ for the Grammar School, and a melodeon for the Preparatory Department. Each department is required to give its own concert or concerts, by which funds are to be raised. Arrangements, we learn, have already been effected for the holding of a concert in the assembly room at the new Central School building, on Friday evening, 28th inst. The first entertainment will be given by the Preparatory Department, and will include the "little folks." The exercises are to consist of reading, declamations, recitations and singing, accompanied by juvenile calisthenics. The admission will be fixed at a low figure, probably not exceeding fifty cents per head, so that parents, friends and patrons, will have no reason to offer for not attending the entertainments. These concerts will be given along at intervals by the several departments until sufficient money has been raised. The plan is certainly novel, and having such a laudable object, deserves to meet with success. At all events, the Board have concluded to try the experiment. As but little expenses will be attached to the entertainments, the end fully warrants the undertaking. At present, our public schools are too seldom visited by parents and the friends of popular education. The public, in a great measure, are ignorant of the manner in which these schools are conducted, or the proficiency acquired by the pupils. Aside from the considerations had in view by the Directors—the purchase of a portion of the necessary auxiliaries for the successful conducting of public schools—the plan proposed will have a tendency to awaken a deeper interest in the cause of the education of the rising generation, and will also be the means of displaying the improvement made by the pupils. Last but not least, it will greatly encourage the pupils by stimulating competition among their ranks.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

Religious services will be held next Sunday, Feb. 23d, at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Portland, in the Norwegian language, at 11 o'clock A. M., and in the English as usual at 1 30 P. M. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Fridrichsen, D. D., will officiate.

PRICES MARKED DOWN.—Polite and attentive clerks will be happy to wait upon customers who are desirous of procuring a No. 1 article of clothing at the most reasonable prices You will find all these ideas carried out to the letter at the well known house of J. Kohn & Co, 91 Front street, Their stock is complete in every respect.

LATEST NOTES ON FASHION.

The following fashionable notes may be of interest to our numerous lady readers.

Polka dots will be revived on all goods cheaper than pure silk fabrics, such as foulards, pongees, grenadines and prints.

About the prettiest muff we have seen lately was made of the iridescent feathers of pigeons' necks. It was worn with a dark blue suit

Hanging baskets, whose vines are made of wax, are a novelty They are quite pretty, and no trouble to take care of. Wax canary birds would also be labor-saving inventions

A red rose bud rubbed on the cheeks is a safe and perfectly effective substitute for rouge poudre, so we are assured by several young ladies who consider cosmetics "disgusting."

The new percales have dark grounds, and some have twilled stripes of dark color on a white ground. The figures on dark grounds are tiny dashes, springs, and Greek squares of white at intervals.

Visiting cards are not used nowadays. The "correct thing" on the hall table of every house is a gorgeously bound visiting book, wherein each visitor records his name and any message he may wish to send.

Pongees, in unbleached and dust-colored hues, are seen in large quantities among the importations. Satin jean, a lighter quality than formerly worn, is also seen among the wash goods in these new colors and polka dots.

All the indescribable shades, known as paradis, lizard and peacock, worn in the winter, are to be seen in the spring goods, but in paler tints, suitable for the season. Pale gray shades, tinged with green and blue, are also introduced.

We would suggest to people who give parties to state on their cards at what hour carriages should be ordered It would seem a little odd at first, but it would prove a most convenient custom, and save no end of trouble and worriment.

The Boston School Board are going to prohibit the use of slates, on the ground of noise, and the fact that slate writing is conductive of bad chirography.

Tom Smith, a Louisville murderer, had his death warrant read to him the other day, and he replied: "Oh! stop fooling around, and go on with your hanging!" They are going on on the 18th of March.

Douglas Jerrold was once asked by an intolerable bore, who affected to be a poet of the Milton school, whether he had read his "Descent into Hell." "No, sir:" responded the irate wit, "but I should like to see it."

A Georgia editor, friendly to Mr. Stephens, says of another Georgia editor who does not like him: "He may throw himself back on his hind legs and bark at Mr. Stephens until his lusty lungs are as dry as his chuckle-head is empty."

The Iowa City Republican vouches for the truth of the story that a Banger, Marshal county, man recently sold his wife to another man for a suit of clothes, and forced her to recognize the sale—which is probably the best use he ever put her to.

The London Times of January 10th, the day after the death of Louis Napoleon, published an editorial of eleven columns and a half concerning his life and character. What is still more unusual, it put a head, "The Emperor Napoleon," over the article.

Neglect everything, or anything except a cough or cold. A year's suffering, and too often death itself, may be the result of one day's inattention to troubles of the throat or lungs. BRITISH COLUMBIA.

One and one-third per cent. is the maximum limit of municipal tax on land in Victoria.

Mr. S. M. Driard proprietor of Driard House who had lived in Victoria since 1858, died on the 15th inst.

Petitions are still received at Victoria against The Woman's Property Act lately passed by the Colonial Legislature of British Columbia. We should think everybody had signed it by this time.

The New Westminster Herald mentions times as being lively at Burrard Inlet. There are three vessels loading at Moody, Dietz & Nelson's, and five at Hasting's Mills. The steamer Cariboo has got new paddle wheels and a new shaft.

A party of five deserters from H. M. S. Tenedos, lying at Victoria, on Sunday night, stole the Captain's boat and crossed the Straits. On Monday the ship went in pursuit, and on Tuesday found the boat on the beach with the bows stove.

The steamer Grappler, having in tow the bark Shooting Star, from Nanaimo, was exposed to all the fury of the gale of the night of the 15th inst. Once the hawser parted, but the bark was saved from going on the rocks through the pluck and skill of Capt. Rudlin, of the Grappler.

The House of the Provincial Legislature gave the Corporations of the cities of Victoria and New Westminster power to extend their limits one mile without the consent of the parties to be incorporated. This will add about 1,000 to the population of Victoria and will lop about 70 voters from Victoria District and give them to the city.

The Colonist says "Frank Campbell has a very large clam which might be served to one hundred sharp set men and there would still be left enough for one hundred more. It is an "old settler," belonging to the Stone Age. It seems to have made an effort to swallow a boulder and the boulder must have turned round and swallowed the clam. As a clam it is hard to (b)eat."

The Victoria Colonist of the 18th has the following "Yesterday afternoon a man passing the pest house, near Beacon Hill, was impelled by curiosity to enter the enclosure and take a look at the buildings. He first directed his steps towards the barn, and, on entering its doors, was surprised to see the form of a man lying on the floor, near one of the stalls. Thinking that the person was drunk he walked up with the intention of arousing him; but a close inspection soon convinced him that the man was stone dead, and that a bullet had passed through the forehead and lodged in the brain. The body lay partly on its face and belly. The discoverer immediately informed the police, and officer Clark went out with a van and carried the remains to the police barracks, where it was viewed last night by hundreds, none of whom, however, succeeded in identifying the body. Not the slightest stain of blood is visible in the barn or anywhere about the place, or on the clothes or face of the dead man. There is only seen a small hole nearly in the center of his forehead, surrounded by black marks, which latter may proceed from coagulated blood beneath or from powder from a fire-arm. No pistol or other weapon was found in the barn or ... The body is that of a powerfully built man about 35 years of age, six feet in height ... as an arrow and broad across the ... grey. The hand is that of a ... His complexion is light; last Saturday to ... —the latter full, with moustache. The clothing is scrupulously clean. It consists of grey overshirt, grey undershirt, pepper and salt pants, new cotton socks and well blacked shoes, and the strangest part of the story is that his shoes bear no marks of having been walked in since they were last cleaned. The appearance of the body indicates that life had not long been extinct—certainly not more that 48 hours."

An Easy Way to Health.

The appetite is generally keener in winter than in summer, but the same low temperature which begets an increased desire for food is apt to decrease the ability of the stomach to digest it The most aggravated cases of acute dyspepsia occur at this season; and the last, and, in fact, the only way to control and cure them, is to stimulate and tone the stomach and invigorate and regulate the secretive and discharging organs. To do this promptly, safely and thoroughly (without involving any change in the ordinary habits of the invalid), a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will be necessary. In order to accomplish a radical cure of indigestion, it is not enough to influence the organs of digestion. The liver, the intestines, the circulation, every organ and every secretion concerned in the work of assimilating the food and in carrying off the waste matter of the system, must be brought into a natural condition. Upon all these portions of the living machinery, the great vegetable medicine, which stands at the head of all modern restoratives, acts powerfully and beneficially. The feeble should take at least one dose daily at all seasons of the year; and it may be taken with great benefit twice a day by all who are predisposed to dyspepsia, biliousness or nervous attacks. Ladies will find it a very present help in the latter class of complaints, and indeed in all the ailments incident to the sex.

A Mystery.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

The river hemmed with leaning trees
Wound through its mead we green,
A low, blue line of mountains showed
The open pines between

One sharp, tall peak above them all
Clear into sunlight sprang;
I saw the river of my dreams,
The mountains that I sang!

No clue of memory led me on,
But well the ways I knew;
A feeling of familiar things
With every footstep grew.

Not otherwise above its crag
Could lean the blasted pine;
Not otherwise the maple hold
Aloft its red ensign.

So up the long and shorn foothills
The mountain road should creep;
So, green and low, the meadow fold
Its red-haired kine asleep.

The river wound as it should wind,
Their place the mountains took;
The white, torn fringes of their clouds
Were no unwonted look.

Yet ne'er before that river's rim
Was pressed by feet of mine,
Never before mine eyes had crossed
That broken mountain line.

A presence, strange at once and known,
Walked with me as my guide,
The skirts of some forgotten life
Trailed noiseless at my side.

Was it a dim remembered dream?
Or glimpse through æons old?
The secret which the mountains kept,
The river never told.

But from the vision ere it passed
A tender hope I drew,
And, pleasant as a dawn of spring,
The thought within me grew.

That love would temper every change,
And soften all surprise,
And, misty with the dreams of earth,
The hills of heaven arise.

DREADFUL CASUALTY.

EXPLOSION OF A BATTERY OF BOILERS—SEVEN MEN KILLED AND A LARGE NUMBER WOUNDED.

One of those fearful explosions from steam which at intervals startle every community—but which, considering the large number of engines used in this city, are comparatively rare here—occurred at the American Iron Works of Messrs. Jones & Laughlins, in the Twenty-fourth ward, on the morning of the 3d inst. at ten o'clock, resulting in the death of seven workmen, the injury of some twenty others, and seriously damaging a portion of the mill.

THE EXPLOSION

Was of the most terrific character, its effects having been felt for many squares around, and occurring in a mill employing some fifteen hundred hands, created the most intense excitement in the vicinity. People flocked to the works by hundreds, and the most fearful apprehensions were felt for the safety of friends, until they were found to be uninjured or only slightly hurt. The exploded boilers made

A FEARFUL WRECK

Of that part of the mill immediately adjacent to where they stood. Four immense trusses of the roof of the mill, each fifteen feet wide by sixty long, and composed of the heaviest timbers, fell in with a thundering crash, the immense columns which supported them having been instantly knocked from under. Portions of the nail mill and bolt factory, two story brick buildings which adjoined the boilers at either end, were also razed to the ground, the walls and timbers, with heavy gearing and machinery, falling in one confused heap. There were several hundred men in dangerous proximity to the boilers, and all those who were fortunate enough to escape being struck, or buried in the ruins,

FLED IN TERROR,

Some being so badly injured that they had to be assisted by their friends, while others rushed out panic stricken. The mill was emptied in a few moments, and the scenes which were witnessed at the meeting of rescued workmen and overjoyed friends brought tears of sympathy to many eyes. The fearful word was passed that several men had been

and the stampede was arrested. Men who, a moment before, fled for their lives, now turned about and sought the place where it was supposed the workmen had been buried up. Squads of workmen were organized, and the task of removing the debris from about where the boilers stood was commenced. It was not long until they came upon a

which was carefully removed and passed out of the mill. The men continued to work patiently, in a cold rain, until six bodies had been taken out. The search was kept up without flagging until half-past twelve, when, the cry was raised "here is the body." Deep down under a mass of brick lay the remains of Patrick Hawley, the father of a family. His body was placed upon a board, and was carried to his home. The

CARRYING OF THE CORPSES

Through the streets was a sad and sickening sight, but the scenes which were witnessed within the sacred precincts of the humble dwellings to which the dead were conveyed, were harrowing in the extreme. The sobbing of stout men, the wailing of broken-hearted women, and the frantic cries of helpless and terror-stricken children, were heart rending. The bodies were covered with dust and dirt, the features were horribly distorted and mutilated, and the sight was appalling.

THE AMERICAN IRON WORKS,

are among the largest in the country, and usually employ about three thousand hands on the day and night turns. Not more than half this number are in the mill at any one time. On the present occasion, the mill was not running a full complement of hands, the nail factory being idle for some time.

The works front on the Monongahela river, and cover a space of several squares in extent. The fragments went flying through the air, striking houses, penetrating through brick walls in two or three instances, falling upon roofs, &c. A piece of boiler was found fully one-third mile from the mill. Glass was broken in the dwellings and stores for several squares around.—Pittsburgh Commercial, February 8th.

THE RUSSIAN GRAND DUKE'S RUNAWAY MATCH—DECREE OF BANISHMENT—SCRAP OF IMPERIAL GOSSIP.

[From the Washington Capital.]

It seems that Fred. Grant brought back from Europe a bit of Imperial gossip. We were flattering ourselves that the Grand Duke was sent to the United States for the purpose of studying our institutions, and the character, manners, and so-forth, of our people. It was the first time, we were assured, that a son of the Czar had been sent to a republic. It turns out, however, according to Fred, that this is all a delusion. The Prince Imperial had become enamored of a lady, not of the blood royal by any manner of means, and wished to marry her. This did not meet the approval of the Imperial family, and so, to get rid of the mesalliance, the young man was sent abroad. But love laughs at locksmiths (when he has the latch-key), and the young girl followed her Imperial lover as far as London, and the two were united, on the sly, in the holy bonds. This coming to the ears of the Imperial father, resulted in a banishment that will probably last his life, and the young man will probably go traveling up and down the earth like the Wandering Jew for a long time, to-wit, forever. When this gets out we suspect the Young Men's Christian Association will engage him to lecture, unless he accepts an offer made him by a Teutonic gentleman in Chicago last summer—to go into the lager beer business. Our German friend thought the Grand Duke would be such an attraction that he could afford to pay him half the profits.

The legal controversy over Mr. Greeley's will was ended at last Monday's hearing by the following note: Dear Judge Hart: I am so much distressed by the report of yesterday's proceedings at White Plains that I must withdraw from a contest which our opponents are determined shall be waged over my father's grave, for not even to carry out his last wishes can I permit a memory which is infinitely dear to me to be so desecrated. With best thanks to yourself, Mr. Nelson and Mr. Choate for the very kind efforts which you have made on behalf of myself and sister, I remain, with much respect, very truly yours, IDA L. GREELEY.

The condition of the European Money market, according to our recent advices, is quite favorable to the placing of the new five per cent loan by the Syndicate, the minimum rate at the Bank of England being 3½ per cent. The plan of placing this loan has been somewhat harshly denounced, but there are obvious advantages in it which will be much more satisfactory to all parties than the slow and tedious method adopted for disposing of the former $200,000,000. Advices by mail indicate that Mr. Boutwell has insisted on one condition, that the National banks shall be allotted the full amount of bonds for which they subscribe, even if the subscriptions in Europe shall exceed the whole three hundred millions. Whatever allotment will be made in such a contingency our National banks will receive their full subscriptions. As this negotiation is most probably the last in which the 5 per cents will be offered by the Government, this arrangement enabling the banks to substitute 5 per cents for 6's is very acceptable, and is being rapidly taken advantage of. Banks which now fail to provide themselves with 5's will doubtless have soon to surrender their 6's for 4's or 4½ per cents.

We note by our cable dispatches that the loan is already quoted at a premium in Europe. The placing of the loan has produced no disturbing influences except to depress the price of gold, which is now sustained only by the efforts of a strong "bull clique," with the consummation of the present programme we may expect lower quotations for gold. There is a great deal of discussion as to how the success of the Syndicate will affect the price of gold here, and until it is known whether European subscriptions are to be paid in 5-20's or in cash, it is impossible to form any intelligent opinion. Most of the 5-20's to be called in are held in Germany, and it is not believed that the holders of these will exchange them for the new fives, but that they will prefer to have them redeemed and reinvest in American railroad bonds, which bear a higher rate of interest than the new fives. Should this be the case the funding operation will practically transfer a great deal of new European capital to this country.

Foreign Wheat Market.

The monthly report of the Department of Agriculture for January is at hand, and contains more than the usual amount of information on various subjects. In regard to the English and French Wheat markets we find that the weekly average prices of Wheat in London during December, 1872, were, respectively, 56s, 55s 10d, 56s 3d, 56s 0d, and 55s 6d per quarter, the aggregate sales being 262,655 quarters. The standing quotations of the Mark Lane Express during the same time, were as follows: British white Wheat, 50s to 67s per quarter, do. red, 50s to 63s; American, 58s to 61s; German, 59s to 81s; Russian, 47s to 66s; Danish and Holstein red, 60s to 63s; California, 65s; Chilian white, 67s; Australian, 64s to 66s. In Liverpool, American White ranged, with some fluctuations, between 13s and 14s 6d per cental; do. red winter and southern, steady between 11s 8d and 12s 2d; do No. 1 spring, 11s 6d to 12s 2d; do. No. 2 spring, 11s 3d to 11s 8d; California white, 12s to 13s 8d; Canadian white, 13s to 14s 0d. do. red, 12s to 12s 7d, Chilian white, 12s to 12s 6d, French white, 12s 3d to 13s 0d; do red, 11s 4d to 12s 7d; Spanish white, 12s 4d to 12s 9d, Danubian, 8s to 9s 10d; Egyptian, 8s to 11s.

In Paris, during the first two weeks, the Wheat trade tended downward, but the decline was arrested, and prices subsequently rose to what they were at the commencement—white Wheat, 50s to 58s per quarter; red, 54s to 56s.

In England the weather was subject of chronic complaint among agriculturists, the intervals of fine weather being few and brief, while the unfavorable meteorological conditions were varied by storms and floods. But little Wheat had been sown, and fears were entertained that even that would be rotted by the excessive moisture. This fear was also manifested on the continent, where the sowing was more successful. Yet foreign Wheat was arriving in London in such quantities as to make it difficult to maintain standing rates. London averages were about 1s below the country averages; hence the poor qualities of British Wheat in that market.

Boston Boot and Shoe Market.

The Shoe and Leather Reporter of the 4th inst. says: The market is more animated than it has been for some weeks past, but is yet not sufficiently so to warrant our forecasting the range of prices in February. Our large dealers are very firm in their rates, and buyers who are here in some force from the West and South, manifest great reluctance to place large orders, buying only from hand to mouth. In the case from the South, there are some parties from that important section who have ordered a portion of their stocks, but they complain of the extreme backwardness of collections. It is only of late that the Southern streams have been deep enough to float the cotton to the seaboard, a fact which taken in conjunction with other disturbing causes, such as the horse distemper, has disarranged the plans of business men in general, and is accountable in a great measure, for the withholding of their orders by the big Southern buyers. Similar complaints, though less loud, come from the West, for which the same causes are generally assigned. Prices of calf boots are now from $2@3 per case higher than they were at the corresponding period of last year; indeed all leather goods are higher than they were before the fire, owing to the general advance in the material.

The Iron Market.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin of the 1st has the following on this subject:

There is no marked change in the iron market since our last report. Refined bar is in moderate request, and prices are very firm, but without material change for the past week. Some sales of ordinary sizes have been made as low as $100, which will not cover the cost of laying down iron bought at present prices either in England or Pennsylvania, but some houses which have bought below present rates are able to sell at the figure we name. The ruling price, however, is higher, and the ordinary selling rates are within the range of our quotations.

The most recent advices from England indicate a very strong feeling among manufacturers there. The labor question seems to be the absorbing one among iron dealers. At the Birmingham "quarter day" meeting £12 was fixed upon as the price for refined bar iron, but no first class stock can be bought at that rate, the best makers holding their stock at £13@£13 10s. The prevailing feeling at the meeting to which we have referred seemed to be that to advance the "list rate" above £12 would work injuriously, and prevent trade from being active. They also feared the effect of a great advance upon their employes, who would be encouraged to strike if they knew their employers were getting extreme prices.

Pig iron is in limited demand, foundrymen being undecided as to the policy of buying at present. American remains about as first quoted, but Eglinton is firmer, and is selling $3 ℔ ton higher than it was three weeks since. Coltness and Gartsherrie are unchanged in price. We quote yard lots of American at $55a58 ℔ ton, including No. 2 extra at $53, and No. 1 at $55. Scotch is held firmly. We quote Eglinton at $55, Coltness at $58a59, Gartsherrie at $58a59.

Miscellaneous.

Coal is coming out of the Douglas pit, British Columbia, at the rate of 150 to 200 tons per day. The other mines are adding their quota to the aggregate output.

The value in gold of imports of Coffee at ports of shipment, (exclusive of the Pacific States,) as shown by Custom House returns, was, in 1872, $25,284,179; in 1871, $16,041,387. It will be noticed that though the amount of Coffee imported in 1872 was much less than in 1871, it cost much more. These results are mainly attributable to the very short crop in Brazil, and a partial failure of the crop in Java in 1871. The average wholesale price in gold in New York was, in 1872 and 1871, respectively, for Brazil, $18 42 and $15 91 per 100 pounds, for San Domingo, $15 37 and $13 55; for Maracaibo and Laguayra, $15 18 and $16 22; for Java, $21 30 and $21 29.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—In making our weekly review this evening, we find that the market, as to quotations, is but little changed. We are informed that one of the principal firms here who have been pretty extensively engaged in purchasing have not bought any at all for some ten days, having about all they can place at present. Another exporting firm continues to purchase, and has secured upwards of 40,000 bushels during the week. The terms upon which this has been bought are as usual withheld by the parties, but we are led to believe that the average price paid was equal to $1 65 per cental. But it must be remembered that these purchases were of four large lots, being 20,000, 10,000, 6,000 and 50,000 bushels respectively. The quotations furnished us to-day are $1 60 per cental, but judging from the past, an advance would be made for round lots of prime quality.

FLOUR—We notice that some attempts of late have been made to decry the worth of Oregon Flour in the San Francisco market, by the papers of that city, but the most reliable advices thence indicate that when our extra brands are offered in that market, they find equally quick sale with the best California, and but a very few instances can be found in the whole season's history in which our product has not sold at current rates. The facts are, Oregon flour will average with that of any other country in the world, and we only regret that all our products have not gained the same enviable reputation attained by this commodity. Our local market is devoid of important change since our last report, the home demand being up to average, with the call for shipment rather dull. Quotations are given $5 50 for extra of Standard brands, good country brands $5, superfine $4 per bbl.

OATS—We note continued fair receipts for the season, though indications are that henceforward lessened quantities will come to hand. The stocks on hand here are rather larger than they were one week ago, but quotations have ruled quite steady for several days and are now furnished at 60 cents per bushel sacked for white, black being about 5 cents lower. A sale of 1,000 bushels was made to shippers to day at the first named figures.

BARLEY—There has been but little done during the week, and in fact transactions reported for the entire season so far would indicate a small crop. Our quotations are unchanged from $1 45a1 50 ℔ 100lbs. We notice the sale of two car loads of choice to day at the last figure, sacks included. The demand is fully up to the supply offered.

FEED—The market is rather more quiet than last week but quotations are still given at $15a18 ℔ ton for bran; 27 50a29 50 for shorts, 30a32 for chops, middlings, etc. The supply on hand has increased during the week.

GRAHAM FLOUR—The supply on hand is quite equal to the present demand, prices consequently now very firm. We quote at $2 37½a2 50 ℔ bale of 100lbs.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—The demand is hardly so active, but as the stock carried is usually small, prices vary but little from week to week. Quotable at 5½c in 10lb sacks, and 6½c in 50 lb sacks.

OATMEAL—The moderate demand for home use is fully supplied by the two mills of our State which manufacture the article. Market quotable at $5 50a6 ℔ 100lb.

HOMINY—No change is noted, the uniform jobbing rates are $5a5 25 ℔ bale of 100 lbs.

OILCAKE MEAL—We note the receipt of a limited quantity from San Francisco per steamer this week, which jobs at $40 per ton.

HAY—The demand is not so active, but owing to diminished receipts prices remain rather steady at 16@18 dollars per ton for fair to choice timothy. Wild is limited in quantity, and finds dull sale at 8@10 dollars.

POTATOES—We notice but little change during the present week, if any in fact, it is toward better rates, but the market is still quotable with the wide range of from 35@45 cents per bushel. None but the best varieties command the latter.

ONIONS—There seems to be a larger supply on hands, with most dealers than usual, and the tendency, owing to this overstock, is toward lower quotations. We quote at 2@2½, as the California market appears very flat and prices extremely low for the season.

BUTTER—The supply of that commonly known as ordinary is most abundant, and the low figures at which much of it is held would likely astonish those who made and sold it to later or merchants during the winter at fair prices. A house which holds large lots of such on commission, offers some at 5@10 cents per pound, but of course it is such as no human being could use as food. Such is the variety that exact quotations are almost impossible. Except bad lots, quotations are given at 16@22 cents per pound for solid, 18@25 cents for roll. Fancy dairy is supplied at the usual rates agreed upon between dairymen and dealers for the season, and is retailing at 50c per pound.

EGGS—The supplies reaching this market continue to be rather in excess of the demand, and prices keep correspondingly low. Dealers are indisposed to advance more than 20 cents per dozen, and claim that sales are dull at that figure.

CHEESE—The supply of Eastern in the market keeps Oregon-made down to former quotations for prime lots at 18a20c ℔ lb.

BACON—Prices are low, buyers not being anxious to purchase at 11a12c ℔ lb for side, 9a10c for shoulder, and 13½a15c for hams. The stock in the hands of dealers here continues to increase, notwithstanding they claim to be indifferent purchasers at current rates. What is to ensue if the foreign demand should continue dull as at present, is an anxious query with holders.

LARD—We quote good, in tins, dull at 11a13c ℔ lb, and in kegs at 10a11c, with but little demand, except for local trade.

POULTRY—We notice quite large receipts of chickens, but prices are steady at $3 50a4 for common lots, with the usual advance on choice fat hens.

HIDES—Trade is fair and quotations are firm at 6c ℔ lb for green, 7a8c for salted, and 15a16 for dry. The demand from Eastern tanneries is becoming more active, and some shipments are made weekly.

WOOL—What little there is of last year's clip is in good demand, and prices are firm at 28a33c ℔ lb. The spring trade in this staple is looked forward to as likely to be lively, and fair prices are anticipated.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
